Hanoi is a food lover's paradise, with a vibrant culinary scene that offers something for every taste and budget. From street food stalls to Michelin-starred restaurants, the city is home to a wide variety of dining options.

In this guide, we will take you on a culinary adventure through Hanoi, highlighting the best eating places in the city. We will cover everything from traditional Vietnamese cuisine to international fare, so that you can find the perfect place to satisfy your cravings.

Street Food Stalls

No visit to Hanoi is complete without trying some of the city's street food. Street food stalls are a great way to experience the local culture and cuisine, and they offer some of the best food in the city.

Some of the most popular street food dishes in Hanoi include:

* Pho: A beef noodle soup that is considered the national dish of Vietnam. * Bun cha: Grilled pork served with rice noodles and a dipping sauce. * Cha ca: Grilled fish served with rice noodles and dill. * Banh xeo: A crispy pancake made with rice flour, turmeric, and coconut milk. * Nem ran: Fried spring rolls.

You can find street food stalls all over Hanoi, but some of the most popular areas include the Old Quarter, Hoan Kiem Lake, and Hang Gai Street.

Restaurants

In addition to street food, Hanoi is also home to a wide variety of restaurants, from casual cafes to fine dining establishments.

Some of the best restaurants in Hanoi include:

* Quan An Ngon: A popular restaurant that serves a wide variety of Vietnamese dishes. * Cha Ca Thang Long: A restaurant specializing in cha ca, a grilled fish dish. * Pho 10 Ly Quoc Su: A famous pho restaurant that has been featured in many travel guides. * La Terrasse du Metropole: A fine dining restaurant located in the historic Metropole Hotel. * The Hanoi Social Club: A modern Vietnamese restaurant with a focus on sustainable ingredients.

No matter what your taste or budget, you are sure to find the perfect eating place in Hanoi.

Tipping

Tipping is not customary in Vietnam, but it is becoming more common in tourist areas. If you are happy with the service, you can leave a small tip (5-10%) on the table.

Dining Etiquette

There are a few dining etiquette rules that you should be aware of when eating in Hanoi:

* Use chopsticks: Chopsticks are the traditional way to eat Vietnamese food. * Share dishes: It is common to share dishes with others at the table. * Don't slurp your soup: Slurping your soup is considered rude in Vietnam. * Don't leave your chopsticks in your bowl: When you are finished eating, place your chopsticks on the table or on a chopstick rest.

By following these simple rules, you can avoid any cultural faux pas while dining in Hanoi.

Hanoi is a culinary paradise, with a wide variety of eating places to choose from. Whether you are looking for a quick bite on the street or a fine dining experience, you are sure to find the perfect place to satisfy your cravings.
