The guinea pig, named Squeaky, is said to be the ghost of a former pet who died tragically. He is said to haunt the pet store, causing all sorts of mischief. The store's owner is desperate for help, and Mariella is determined to find out the truth.

Mariella begins her investigation by talking to the store's owner and employees. She learns that Squeaky was a beloved pet who died suddenly of a heart attack. The store's owner is convinced that Squeaky's ghost is behind the recent string of strange events, but Mariella is not so sure.

Mariella decides to do some research on guinea pigs and their behavior. She learns that guinea pigs are social animals who need a lot of attention and interaction. She also learns that guinea pigs can be scared easily and may react by running away or hiding.

Armed with this new information, Mariella returns to the pet store and observes Squeaky closely. She notices that Squeaky is often alone and seems to be scared of the other animals in the store. Mariella also notices that Squeaky is always hiding in the same spot, under a shelf in the back of the store.

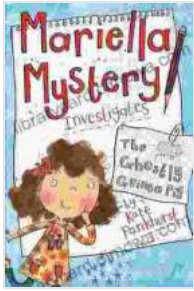

Mariella realizes that Squeaky is not a ghost at all. He is simply a scared and lonely guinea pig. Mariella decides to take Squeaky home with her to give him the attention and care he needs.

At home, Mariella gives Squeaky a new cage with plenty of food, water, and toys. She also spends a lot of time playing with Squeaky and talking to him. Slowly but surely, Squeaky begins to come out of his shell. He becomes more active and playful, and he even starts to make friends with Mariella's other pets.

The mystery of the ghostly guinea pig is solved. Squeaky was not a ghost at all, but simply a scared and lonely animal who needed a little love and attention. Mariella is happy to have given Squeaky a new home and a new chance at a happy life.
